CLASS 1

Presentation of the semester Expectations for your speaking test

Un des de vos deux tests d'anglais sera une présentation orale dont la répartition des sujets se fera la semaine prochaine. Nous procéderons à un tirage au sort pour déterminer l'ordre des choix. La 1<sup>ème</sup> personne tirée au sort sera la 1<sup>ème</sup> à choisir son sujet, la 2<sup>ème</sup> tirée au sort choisira parmi les sujets restants, etc...

Pour la semaine prochaine, il vous faut donc préparer, pour vous-mêmes, vos sujets préférés dans ma liste afin de choisir rapidement lorsque votre tour viendra lors du tirage au sort. Liste projetée ce jour en cours et disponible sur Célène.

C'est une prise de parole en public. Vous serez notés sur le fond et sur la forme. Ce semestre, il ne s'agit pas de donner votre avis mais de faire un exposé descriptif scientifique sur le sujet que vous aurez choisi. Vous devrez parler entre 5 et 6 minutes (ou plus si je vous le signale dès le premier cours et en fonction de nombre d'étudiants par groupe) puis répondre aux questions posées par vos camarades et par votre enseignante le cas échéant.

Vous préparerez un poster ou un PPT pour illustrer vos propos. Vous n'aurez pas droit à d'autre aide que votre plan détaillé et quelques notes succinctes et sans phrase complète, écrites sur votre poster ou sur PPT. Votre support papier ou digital sera donc votre guide ainsi qu'un support visuel pour votre public mais sera confisqué s'il ne respecte pas la règle de «plan seulement et quelques notes sans phrases »

Le barème : montré en cours et disponible sur Célène. Vous serez évalués sur :

- La fluidité et le body language
- La structure et organisation
- Le contenu et maitrise du sujet
- Le vocabulaire varié et ciblé
- La prononciation
- La grammaire

Vous veillerez à avoir une introduction, un développement et une petite conclusion. A l'issue de chaque présentation, les étudiants et le professeur poseront peut-être des questions à la personne évaluée, selon le temps ou le besoin. Il ne s'agit en aucun cas de piéger vos camarades avec des questions difficiles, mais de lui donner l'occasion de s'expliquer ou de parler un peu plus.

- 5. Pronunciation: sentence stress.
  - You cannot stress all the words of the sentence. The 'music' is inside the words
     AND inside the sentences.
  - Words such as the, a, an, to be, and... are usually not stressed unless you want to insist on them. Nouns, verbs and adjectives must or can be stressed depending on what you mean.
  - Practice. Read these sentences. Pay attention to the intonation.
  - a. I was thinking of buying a car.
  - b. I'm sorry, I can't. I'm going to college.
  - c. Let's eat, Grandma!
  - d. I need to study tonight.
  - e. I didn't cheat on the test today! (=> What do you insist on?)
  - f. I didn't kiss that man. / I didn't kiss that woman! (=> What do you insist on?)
    - Changing the meaning.

Sometimes, the meaning changes depending on where you put the stress.

- The cat is sleeping. → What's important in the sentence? Read.
- I didn't leave because I was angry. (I stayed)

- I didn't leave because I was angry. (I left but not because I was angry).
- Mike's cookies are delicious.
- Mike's cookies are delicious.
- Mike's cookies are delicious.
- ⇒ What are the differences between the three?
- ⇒ Read them out loud.
  - Your Spanish is almost perfect.
  - What are the differences?
  - Read them out loud.
  - Silences and intonation → use silences and proper intonation. Example:
  - I love my parents, Lady Gaga, and Dwayne Johnson.
  - (not: I love my parents, Lady Gaga and Dwayne Johnson.)
- 6. Public speaking if time allows
